City to Gain Single Family Houses With Smith-Ewing/Tidler Rezoning

by Mary Lou Williamson

On June 24 the Prince Georges County Council, sitting as the District Council, approved six petitions for rezoning 105.19 acres of the Smith-Ewing and Tidler properties. The largest parcel, 39.4 a., will be developed in the R-55 zone—single family, detached homes—a category in short supply in Greenbelt.

The mix of zoning categories that has now emerged is the result of two years of negotiations between the developers and the neighboring residents. The Greenbelt City Council's support eased the path through the arduous rezoning process. Even the recommendations of denial for the four commercial zones by both the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission (MNCPPC) technical staff and the Hearing Examiner, Barry Cramp, were virtually ignored by both the Planning Board and the District Council secure in the knowledge that the community was satisfied.

So anxious were community leaders to gain more detached housing that they were willing to accept commercial development on the east side of Hanover Parkway. The 1970 Master Plan called for no commercial zones east of Hanover Parkway.

While the R-55 zone was the sweetener, the threat that the existing 21.8 a. of the Smith-Ewing property (see map), zoned R-10 or high-rise residential, could be developed now, was the enforcer. The residents of Greenbriar, Windsor Green/Glen Ora and Hunting Ridge so strongly opposed highrise apartments towering above their homes that they were willing to take in trade the low- and mid-rise commercial buildings sought by the developers.

Opposition

MNCPPC technical staff views, in opposition to the commercial zone applications, were presented to the District Council by planner Paul Fields. Hanover Parkway, with its six lanes and grassy median, has traditionally been seen as the logical barrier between the commercial development of Greenway Shopping Center/Maryland Trade Center Park to the west and the residential areas to the east, he explained. "Hanover Parkway is a separation," said Fields. "Commercial development (on the east side of the street) would intrude." The zoning hearing examiner, Fields continued, had also recommended denial of the commercial zone applications. The examiner, too, called Hanover Parkway a "dividing line." A street is a logical barrier, Fields explained. "The wider the street, the more barrier it is . . . protection to the residential side."

The technical staff had recommended R-T, residential townhouse, for the four properties proposed for commercial zones. Park and Planning's transportation study, recently completed, called for down-zoning these four parcels to a density not greater than R-T. (The Master Plan for the Greenbelt-College Park area is currently under study).

Fields acknowledged that the Planning Board had disagreed with the staff's recommendations, saying the proposed rezonings "satisfied the spirit of the Master Plan." The commercial zones would be oriented west toward Hanover Parkway, not east toward the residential areas, the Planning Board had said.

Applicants

George Brugger, attorney for all six applications, called the negotiated proposal "custom tailored" to the needs of the developers and the wants of the community. He spoke of the "long road to get to this point . . . the arduous meetings between the owners, developers, residents and municipal officials." Neighboring lands are all developed, he noted, what we were looking at is the "hole in the donut, what should go into it."

The property rises dramatically at the eastern edge of the Smith-Ewing property creating, he said, the appropriate barrier to separate the residential areas to the east. Hanover Parkway, the barrier used by the technical staff and the zoning examiner, he termed "erroneous." The four low- and mid-rise office buildings and the residence inn planned along the east side of Hanover Parkway, he claimed, would provide the best transition from the high intensity use of the shopping center on the west to the residential areas on the east.

The 34.25 a. of townhouses planned for the Tidler property just east of the four commercial zones would include the use of wooded buffer strips in order to "respect already existing developments."

The R-55 detached homes, to be located south of Windsor Green, will be built in clusters with green space, including existing vegetation, left as is in the stream valley areas.

Brugger told the District Council that the seven pounds of traffic studies he held in his hands would show that in the peak hours traffic would be better with a mix of commercial and residential zones than either all commercial or all residential. Plans in "your C.I.P. for the extention of Hanover Parkway and the widening of Greenbelt Road," he told council, "which are to take place concurrently with our development will result in no re-

Going Out of Business

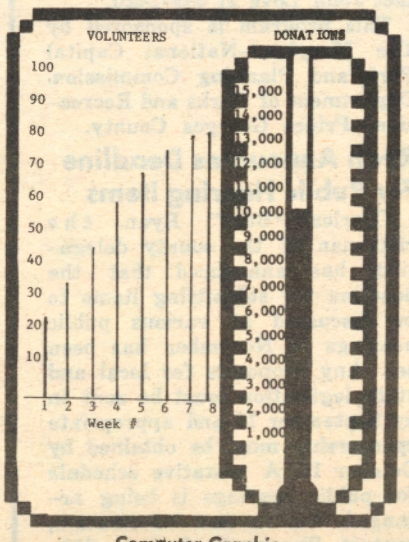

by Cheryl Jones

Yes, it's true - the Friends of the Greenbelt News Review Steering Committee is going out of business. Shortly you'll see our last article, which will be a general wrap-up of the entire campaign and its end results. After that it will be up to you to make sure that the News Review continues to get the kinds of support that keep it the valuable asset that it is. Before leaving, we would really like to ask (just this one last time) that if you haven't sent in a contribution or volunteered to work on the paper, do so now.

The total dollar amount received to date is $10,009, from 511 donors. We are two-thirds of the way to our goal of $15,000. I know that we can push that thermometer over the top. We also got one new volunteer, bringing the total to 79, which is 266% over our original goal of 30. Now let's make the fund-raising part of the campaign 100% successful —come on, Greenbelt, you are up to the challenge!

Donations were received this week from the following: GHI, the Boxwood Civic Association, and in the name of Don Curry from Greenbriar Phase II. We are especially proud of the area businesses that took the time (and money) to respond to our pleas with advertising and cash donations. Those who did, proved their commitment to Greenbelt.

REMEMBER, THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE TO BE COUNTED IN THE GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW FUND RAISER. WE ARE COUNTING ON YOU!

City Council to Seek Re-routing Of Hanover Parkway Extension

by Virginia Beauchamp

Following the representation from the community of Hunting Ridge at the July 15 Greenbelt City Council meeting that the present design for the extension of Hanover Parkway appeared to impact adversely on the condominium development, council set up a special work session on Monday, July 22 to explore the issue further. Present at the meeting were James R. Novak, Director of the county's Department of Public Works and Transportation, and Carl Sheffel, highway engineer. Among a fairly large contingent from Hunting Ridge were two representatives who had spoken at the earlier meeting — Thomas Renahan, president of the civic association, and Donald Reider, chair of the Facilities and Services Committee.

According to Reider, about 126 residents, a third of the current population of Hunting Ridge, who occupy three buildings along the proposed right-of-way for Hanover Parkway, would be adversely affected by the proximity of that roadway to their property lines. In particular he was concerned about vehicle lights shining at night directly into the groundfloor apartments, about excessive noise, and about what residents felt was inadequate attention to a drainage problem because of the relatively flat terrain. He felt that the resale value of these homes would be adversely affected by such problems.

Since the city already owns the land directly across the roadway, which has been dedicated for park land, Hunting Ridge residents wondered if the right-of-way could not be moved one street lane—or 12 feet—to the east. No trees would be affected, they said; currently the city's property looks like a "moonscape." (It contains mounds of clay dirt piled up from an earlier grading in the development process on what used to be the old Schrom Airport runway, a World War II facility.)

Both Sheffel and Novak disputed that the roadway would be as close to the residences as was contended. Homes would be 50 feet from the curb and gutter line, they said. But Reider disputed their figures. He was able to measure from 30 to 38 feet—"I never got 40," he said.

Renahan agreed. "If you actually see this—walk over this land—there would be no doubt that the road is close," he said.

According to Novak, any delay now would cost from nine months to a year in construction delay, because of the large num-

Saturday Morning Movies Free for First 100 Kids

The first 100 children at the Greenbelt Arts Center's showing of "Pinocchio" at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 27, will get in free, thanks to a generous gift from the Greenbelt American Legion Post No. 136.

The same offer will apply to the August 3 showing of "Old Yeller." Gene Sparks, Chairman of the Legion's Community Betterment Committee, indicates the grants are part of the Legion's involvement with worthwhile activities that serve Greenbelt's young people.

There were 130 at the showing of "The Jungle Book," and Arts Center president Konrad Herling emphasizes that the response to the Saturday morning film series shows how important the Utopia Theater can be in providing in–town entertainment within walking or biking distance for most residents. The Arts Center is exploring the possibility of extending the movie series through August. The initiation of the Walt Disney festival was made possible by a grant from the City of Greenbelt.

The Utopia Theater will not open its doors until after 9:30 a.m. on Saturday.

THANKS

To the Editor:

I want to thank the merchants of Greenway Center for the ad which appeared in the Greenbelt News Review on Thursday, July 18, suggesting "Our Community Adopt a Tree" to mark the city's 50th year.

Having ten grandchildren, I also want to thank Eileen Peterson and Mary Lou Williamson for their beautiful sentiments and suggestion that we "put a little of ourselves into the living green of Greenbelt" and being remembered by "our children and grandchildren as they stand under the shade of a tree we planted to celebrate Greenbelt's 50th anniversary.

Just a reminder to all Greenbelters that August 30 is the last day to order trees for fall planting this October. Applications for ordering trees are available from the city office and Co–op Supermarket.

Mike Burchick
Chairman, Adopt–a–Tree Subcommittee

Thanks to Legion

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Greenbelt Arts Center, I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the American Legion, Post No 136, for its most kind contribution to the Arts Center. This contribution will allow the first 100 children attending this Saturday's film, "Pinocchio," and next Saturday's film, "Old Yeller," to enter the Utopia free.

The Arts Center is pleased with the growing support for this film series, as we are working diligently to more fully address the needs of our community. It also is helping to familiarize more of the community with the theater and to further establish the fact that the Utopia is a friend for children and adult alike.

Again, we thank Commander Parker and Finance Officer Sparks for their contribution to the Arts Center and the community.

Konrad Herling

Finding or Founding Daycare Centers

The demand for day care and afterschool care in Prince Georges County is growing. According to a recent report, Child Care, An Interim Report, issued last January by the Task Force on Child Care in Prince Georges County, nearly 100,000 children under age 14 need day care. However, the report says, existing family and group day care centers, nurseries, and camps only provide for about 15,000 children. This means that many families are looking in vain for care for their children and that there is a big market for those who would like to operate day care centers.

The Greenbelt Branch Library has a number of books to help parents find and evaluate day care facilities. Childcare Information Research, a nonprofit organization in Seat Pleasant, publishes the Guide to Daycare and Nursery Schools for Maryland, 1984–1985, a reference book which can be consulted at the library. It covers group day care providers in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties, has a checklist for evaluating a center, and reprints the state regulations controlling day care. Three recent books available for loan on choosing among day care alternatives are The Working Parents' Guide to Child Care, by Bryna Siegel-Gorelick; Monday Through Friday: Day Care Alternatives, by Jane Merrill Filstrup; and Mother Care, Other Care, by Sandra Scarr.

Those who would like to operate a day care center should read A House Full of Kids: Running a Successful Day Care Business in Your Own Home, by Karen Murphy. Also, be aware that the Day Care Registration Unit of the P. G. County Department of Social Services schedules orientation meetings for those thinking of operating a day care facility. Call them at 779–1471 for date and place of meetings. The Day Care Registration Unit will also provide a list of day care providers in Prince Georges County arranged by zip code if you give them a call.

For information on these books and other library materials please contact the Greenbelt Library at 345–5800.

Lions Club Announces Contest Winners

The Greenbelt Lions Club capped its two and a half month "Body-by-Adidas Dodge Mini-Caravan" raffle fund raising project with ticket sales and a drawing of the winners by Greenbelt's mayor Gil Weidenfeld at the Buddy Attick Park on the Fourth of July.

The winning ticket was held by Mrs. Vivian Edwards of Greenbelt. Rules of the national contest, of which the local contest was a part, require that several alternates be selected should the winner become ineligible for the Grand Prize drawing. Alternates, also drawn by Mayor Weidenfeld, are Mrs. Mercedes Tyree of Capitol Heights and Mrs. Thelma Lomax and Mrs. Doris Nolan, both of College Park. None of the winners was present at the drawing.

Mrs. Edwards will be entered in the Grand Prize drawing for a full size 1985 Dodge Caravan with $500 worth of Adidas Sporting Gear to be held in Dallas in late August. As consolation prizes the Greenbelt Lions awarded $50 checks to the alternates and all winners were invited to receive their awards at the July 8 dinner meeting of the club at the Greenbelt American Legion Post Home.

Success of this fund-raising project, which yielded approximately $2000, was primarily due to the donation of the Body-by-Adidas Dodge Mini-Caravan by Lion Barry Bleckman, manager of the Beltway Plaza Sporting Life store; Pat Valle, marketing manager of Beltway Plaza; L. Casti, manager of the Greenway Shopping Center Safeway; Lion H. Irving of the Greenbelt Recreation Association for advertising and logistics; to the Lions who sold tickets; and to the community, who supported the Lions by purchasing tickets.

Football Sign-Up to Be Held For Boys and Girls Club

by Jeff Keir

Registration and first practice session for the 1985 Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club football teams is Thursday, August 1, 6 p.m. at Braden Field.

The Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club football program offers Greenbelt youth the opportunity and experience to learn basic skills and team work, along with the opportunity to achieve personal growth and recognition in a structured program competing against youth from other county clubs in their own weight and age class. Weight classes are: 75 lb., 85 lb., 95 lb., 110 lb. & 125 lb. The club has on order new game uniforms for the 125 lbs. team as a start in a general uniform replacement schedule. The new uniforms mark not only a change in club colors, green and white to green and gold, but in spirit too. All Greenbelt youth from Windsor Green, Greenbriar, Glen Ora, Hunting Ridge, "old" Greenbelt, and Springhill Lake are urged to participate.

Sign-ups and practice begins August 1 with all teams being committed no later than August 14 with the county. Anyone who plans to be out of town, or is trying out for JV should still register August 1, or call Mel Scites (441-8689) to register, so his name can be placed on a roster. A minimum of 15 players are needed to field a team, no exceptions.

If 1985 membership in the club has not been renewed, dues must be paid at this time. Dues are for the club year, not per sport.

Volunteer coaches are also needed. Call Jeff Keir (552-9234) for further information.

Promotions Committee

The Promotion and Sales Subcommittee of the 50th Anniversary Committee will meet on August 8 at 8 p.m. in the City Council Room. Anyone who would like to work with this group to raise funds and develop promotional projects is invited to attend. The subcommittee has sponsored the sale of flags, will be active at the Labor Day Festival and is actively seeking other creative means of informing the community of the 50th Anniversary projects and gaining support.

Cancer Education Program

An educational kit on colorectal cancer is now available for groups and organizations interested in presenting programs on what has been identified as the nation's second greatest cancer killer. Education on colorectal cancer and early detection of the disease could change that.

Developed by AARP (the American Association of Retired Persons) in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, the kit contains a timeline for conducting a cancer risk reduction program, a poster and sample flyer, information on providing a high fiber meal and stool blood tests for the program, a listing of American Cancer Society resources, and more.

The kit is available, at no charge, from:

CONSIDERING A CHANGE IN RESIDENCE?

There are three key elements to consider:

A) Your needs: things you positively have to have.

B) Your wants: things you'd like to have, but don't necessarily need.

C) Your qualifications:

1) Your initial investment (cash to move in)
2) Your total income (gross yearly income)
3) Your debt service (total indebtedness)

I would like the opportunity to discuss with you how we can combine these three factors to assist you and your family in achieving your housing goals both within Greenbelt and the metropolitan area - of course with no obligation.

Crime Prevention Corner

by Marcia L. Heimberger

Paul Rall, an activist in fighting crime in Greenbelt, met with the Greenbelt Crime Prevention Committee at its recent June meeting and shared what he feels makes neighborhood watches tick . . . so to speak.

Greenbelt is a city steeped in volunteerism, community service, and a special feeling of neighborliness. The residents of Greenbelt take pride in our city and willingly pitch in to make it better. One such resident is Paul Rall.

A few years ago crime was on the upswing in the Lakewood/Woodland Hills area. Paul and his neighbors decided to start a Neighborhood Watch in Lakewood. With the help of Doug Sappington of the Greenbelt Police Department, a Neighborhood Watch training session at the Greenbelt Baptist Church was scheduled. About 80 attended.

When asked what are the most important things for a successful mobile Crime Watch, Paul responded, "'Obtaining a base station and operator, and proper scheduling. We had access to a base station and willing operators right at the start. Next was organizing some sort of scheduling system which was flexible yet accurate. If you can't work around the personal obligations of your neighbors, it results in too few people patrolling too many nights."

Paul said he is frequently asked to relate "success stories" from the Neighborhood Watch. "An interesting — and difficult — aspect of Neighborhood Watch is that if nothing happens when you're on patrol, great. But sometimes it's hard to remember that "nothing happening" is the result we want. It can get dull out there, but there have been married couples who tell me that the only time they really get to talk is when they're on patrol together. Parents sometimes take their kids with them — it can provide an opportunity to spend time with your loved ones sharing an activity which benefits your neighborhood." (A strict rule of Crime Watch is that participants never become directly involved when a suspicious activity is observed. The patrol radios the base station operator who in turn phones the police to investigate the reported incident.)

Some Crime Watch participants, according to Paul, have said they derive a great deal of personal satisfaction from their involvement in the program. But Paul says his motivation is mostly that of community service.

Whatever his motivation, he deserves a big "thank you" from his neighbors and the Crime Prevention Committee for his hard work and dedication. Paul Rall, and those who work with him on the Neighborhood Watch, are to be commended for their efforts.

5c Increase for 911

A 5-cent increase per month for telephones has been approved by Council to cover costs of the address locator system.

The address locator will allow emergency operations to obtain address information simultaneously with incoming calls. This will increase capabilities to provide emergency assistance.

At present the 911 fee is 15 cents per month to cover cost of operating the emergency number.

Swim Team News

by Tom Jones

Last Saturday, Greenbelt beat the other undefeated team in its division, Hawthorne Country Club, 269–256, coming from behind at the end of the meet.

Craig Dies set pool records in 15–18 boys butterfly, breast stroke, and the individual medley. Tara Yaney set team records for 15–18 girls breast stroke and individual medley.

Triple winners (scoring 15 points) were Jenny Drake, Steffan Sonneveldt, Kathy Barwick, and Craig Dies. Other scorers included Josh Kepler (13 points); Allison Low, Jason Everhart, and Carolyn Drake (11); Brian Sluder, Tara Yaney, Rob Reed and Shannon Berger (9); Bill Barwick (7); and Lynda Blue, Morgan Groft, and Margaret Williamson (6).

Allon Stern and Tami Meyers were the most improved swimmers.

This Saturday, Greenbelt will go to the Naval Ordinance Swim Club in Charles County for its last dual meet of the season, which promises to be close. Because of the distance, swimmers and officials must meet at the Greenbelt pool at 7 a.m.

Next Wednesday, July 31, Greenbelt will take part in the annual New Carrollton Relays, competing against five other teams. As this meet is composed entirely of relays, the coach needs to know by Monday exactly who will and who will not be there so that everyone going can take part. Swimmers and officials should meet at the Greenbelt pool at 5 p.m. After the meet, the team will return for the annual splash party.

At Greenbelt Library

Plant Clinic. There will be a plant clinic on Wednesday, July 31 at 7–8:30 p.m. People should bring their sick house plants, vegetables, shrub and grass samples for diagnosis by urban agriculture agents and members of the master gardener program.

Movies for Tots. On Tuesday, July 30 movies for tots for ages 3–8 at 10:30–11:15 a.m. The movies will be "Rosie's Walk," and "Really Rosie."

Contest Winners Awarded

A mural painting contest sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department and the Greenbelt Clergy Association was held as part of Greenbelt's 48th Anniversary celebration. Murals depicting Greenbelt history were painted in the Centerway underpass. They were judged and prizes were awarded in several categories. The following were winners: senior citizen, Majorie L. Dodd organization, Playboy Rockers; adult, Poly Sursi; teen, Joshua Lefchick and Nicholas Jones; teen and under, Paul VanBargen and Desiree Reese.

The judges were George Smith, Director of Public Works; Scott Wycherly, Director of Christian Education at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, who also coordinated the event; Gil Weidenfeld, Mayor of Greenbelt; and Barbara Simon of the Greenbelt Arts Guild. All participants received a ribbon and the winners each received a plaque.

COLLEGE PARK, Md.

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Three reports of thefts from auto were logged from the 6900 and 7700 blocks of Hanover Parkway on July 12 and 13.

A brown 1979 Pontiac Trans Am bearing Maryland registration GJB 475 was stolen from 7710 Hanover Parkway.

Throughout the week of July 16 incidences of theft have been occurring at the Safeway in Greenway Center. Ladies purses, left unattended in shopping carts, have been entered and the wallets removed. The culprits then use bank information contained in the wallets to withdraw money from accounts of victims. Several suspects have been developed who appear to be part of a larger organization working the metropolitan area.

A 1985 red Yamaha bearing Maryland registration 203133 was stolen from the Beltway Plaza.

A moped was stolen from Springhill Lane. It was later located and returned to the owner.

Officers responded to an officer in need of assistance call on July 16 involving Metro Transit Police on a Metro bus at the Beltway Plaza. Two persons were arrested by Metro Transit Police for an assault that occurred on the bus. One Metro officer and one defendant were hospitalized for injuries received.

An indecent exposure occurred on July 16 at 9006 Breezewood Terrace. The suspect is described as a white male, 20's, 5'9", medium build, short brown hair, wearing blue jeans and no shirt.

Two attempted thefts of motor cycles occurred in the Lakeside North apartment complex on July 16.

Numerous complaints were received on July 16 pertaining to a large fight at the Center. Officer Troy Harding arrested two adult males, one for disorderly intoxication and breaking and entering, the other for hindering a police officer. Officer Harding suffered a broken foot in the melee but was able to pursue one of the subjects a lengthy distance and apprehend him after the subject forcibly entered a home in an attempt to elude arrest.

Windsor Green Fetes Putens

by Linda Miller

The Windsor Green Homeowners Association paid special tribute to outgoing Board of Directors member Edward Putens recently at a reception attended by some 150 homeowners and special guests. Putens who was saluted as the "founding father" of the homeowners group, was cited as the person responsible for leading the community from scratch to a model community with more than 400 families in the short span of eight years.

Among those who presented awards or offered special tributes were Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, County Councilman Richard Castaldi, former Windsor Green Board Member Dee Allison, current Board member Tom Malone and Windsor Green homeowner Dennis Skelly. Congressman Steny Hoyer also sent a letter commending Putens on his contributions to the community and to Greenbelt as a whole.

Allison, in her role as emcee for the tribute, noted that when Putens became the first elected member of the Windsor Green Board, he established a goal to make the community the best in the metropolitan area. "He was practical, thorough, imaginative and, above all, enthusiastic," she said. She cited many of his specific accomplishments during his eight years in a leadership role for the community, with special emphasis on development of the community center; the beautification of the community through plantings of trees, flowers and shrubs; contract negotiations which keep homeowners' fees low; and the pursuit of the traffic signal at Mandan and Greenbelt Roads.

Mayor Weidenfeld, in presenting a special plaque to Putens in recognition of his work on behalf of the community, noted the special importance of Windsor Green's integration into the existing city through Putens' efforts. He cited the long hours and work done by Putens to make Greenbelt a better place to live and raise families, emphasizing that Windsor Green had become a part of the city of which everyone could be proud.

Councilman Richard Castaldi presented a proclamation from the Prince Georges County Council saluting Putens "for his outstanding leadership, accomplishments and service to his community."

Windsor Green Board Member Tom Malone presented a gift tape recorder on behalf of the homeowners, recognizing Putens' contributions in making Windsor Green a model community, and Dennis Skelly presented a plaque on behalf of the homeowners.

Becky Putens also was honored for her role in the development of Windsor Green, not only as Ed's primary "asset and assistant" but for her own hard work as well. She was responsible for founding and continuing the community's newsletter for eight years, for the annual crab feast, and for many other efforts on behalf of the homeowners.

In his "thank-you" message to the homeowners and guests, Putens noted that he had enjoyed his work on behalf of the community. He concluded by stating, "I might be off the board, but I'll still be around to help out whenever needed."

CITY NOTES

Bus Service

The bus service has been operating on the fixed route this week, mostly with car No. 1. Repairs are being made to both buses and are expected to be operating early next week. Ridership has been limited, but a number of calls for information have been received in the city offices.

The parks crew maintained the golf course and ballfields. The crew also cut grass in playgrounds and along roadsides and weeded the flowerbed at the entrance to Buddy Attick Park.

The general crew installed traffic control signs throughout the city and patched potholes on Westway Rd., Lakeside Dr., Julian Ct., and Lastner Lane. The crew also placed sod along the edge of the Lake Trail.

The general crew surveyed the city and repaired street shoulders and pot holes. They also worked at Buddy Attick Park on landscaping and repair of the park trail. The crew removed the cut off across the bay and erected barricades to eliminate future use of this area as a pathway. This area will be relandscaped. The drain line between the silt basin on Lakecrest and the bay was repaired.

The parks crew performed routine maintenance on ball fields, the golf course and municipal areas. Some trees were trimmed behind Tamarisk Road adjacent to Valley Stream. The leaf vacuum and chipper were out collecting leaves and brush in many areas. Trees are being trimmed along Hanover Parkway at Greenbriar.

Over the past weeks the parks crew has been cleaning portions of the lake, removing debris from the bay and peninsula areas. The level of the lake was lowered approximately six inches and the State of Maryland Department of Natural Resources personnel, along with John Emler, city consultant engineer, made test borings to the concrete at the spillway. The city is awaiting a report from Emler before proceding further with the renovation of the spillway.

Public Works Director George Smith attended a meeting of the Hunting Ridge Association and participated in a discussion on the location and proposed construction of Hanover Parkway between Greenway Center Drive and Good Luck Road.

Paul Fishetti and Wendy Wexler gave a presentation on Adolescent Suicide to the CARES volunteer counselors last Wednesday evening.

On Thursday, July 11, Wendy attended the monthly meeting of the Prince Georges County Foster Care Review Board.

duction of the level of service provided now on those roads (level E)."

Covenants

Brugger spelled out for the District Council the various promises that had been made to the City of Greenbelt and written into a 99-year covenant, signed by both parties and enforceable by the city. A height limit on the mid-rise office building closest to Greenbelt Road will allow the residents in adjacent Glen Ora townhouses, because of the steep rise in the land, to look out over the office building. Their views will not be blocked, said Brugger. A buffer of existing trees at that same corner is also required.

In recommending approval of the rezoning the city council also required that adequate public facilities tests of the MNCPPC would be met both at the usual time of subdivision review and again at the time of site plan review; the city be given site plan review; and a traffic circulation plan be prepared by the developers at each of these two reviews.

Community Support

Susan Malone, representing the combined neighboring communities of Windsor Green, Greenbriar, and Hunting Ridge was present to assure the District Council of that group's support, as was city administrative aide Michael McLaughlin.

The people's zoning counsel, Ron Schiff, referring to the 1949 zoning plan for the area, called the change in the character of the neighborhood in the intervening years — a permissible reason for rezoning — "uncontroverted. There is enough evidence (for the rezoning) to be fairly debatable," he said.

District Council Votes

"Who knows better about land use than the people in the neighborhood?" said District Council member Richard Castaldi, who represents Greenbelt. "This is some of the best land-use planning I've seen in a long time," he said as he thanked the participants in the process.

William Amonett, council chairman, complimented "all parties involved for their perseverance . . ., everybody's the winner because you were willing to sit down together. Your work makes this council's job a lot easier." Mike Rose, developer for the Tidler tract, reiterated Amonett's words in his comment later to the News Review. The key, he said, "was working together."

"All things go well for those who love God and Greenbelt," Hilda Pemberton, District Council member, summed up the results of the 35 minute oral arguments and resulting six motions, all of which were approved 7 to 0. A super-majority or six votes was required for the four applications that did not conform to the Master Plan. Castaldi made the motions. (Floyd Wilson was out of the country and Sue Mills was conducting county business elsewhere that morning, Amonett explained to those attending the hearing.)

Frank Casula was the only member of council to vote caution as he spoke of the necessity to have the county's planned "road improvements and traffic controls in place when the new developments are opened or we're going to have complete chaos."

Crisis Center Moves

The Greenbelt/College Park Crisis Center recently moved to new facilities in the Greenway East Professional Center, 7525 Greenway Center Drive, Suite 104. The Crisis Center, open a year in the Greenbelt/College Park area, is operated by the Psychiatric Institute of Washington and provides counseling, crisis intervention and short-term psychotherapy to people in emotional crisis. Immediate or next day appointments can be made by calling 982-0075. Hours are flexible; fees are based on ability to pay and no one is turned away.

The Crisis Center is staffed by nurse therapists who help people confronted with a variety of stresses that have become overwhelming, such as the loss of a loved one, the trauma of unemployment, family difficulties or substance abuse. The Center's staff, after evaluating the situation, can provide intensive short-term therapy or make recommendations for more long-term help.

County Letter Describes Highway Improvement Projects In Greenbelt

by Virginia Beauchamp

In response to the city's request at a special work session on July 22 with county and state highway officials, James R. Novak, Director of the county's Department of Public Works and Transportation, sent a letter recently to the city describing highway projects now scheduled for construction within the Greenbelt city limits.

In chronological order, these are as follows:

Hanover Parkway

Originally scheduled with design plans completed and specifications already available for bids, the extension of Hanover Parkway to Good Luck Rd. has been put on hold by council's request to consider rerouting the roadway opposite Hunting Ridge about one road lane to the east on to city park property. (See separate story.) This move will delay the start of construction from the projected September 1985 schedule. In fact, it may put this project behind two other road projects.

Greenbelt Rd.

One is the widening of Greenbelt Rd. from Mandan Rd. to the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and from the western end of the Parkway bridge to the eastern limits of the Kenilworth Ave.-Greenbelt Rd. interchange now under construction. The other is the construction of the extension of Cherrywood Lane in the Capitol Office Park development from Ivy Lane to Edmonston Rd., at a point north of the State Highway Administration's salt dome. Construction on both these projects is scheduled to begin in the spring of 1986.

Cherrywood Lane

On the other side of the Beltway, the present Cherrywood Lane will be widened to 60 feet except in areas where right-of-way restrictions may make this impossible (probably alongside the supermarket in the Beltway Plaza). Construction is expected to begin in fall 1986.

Both sections of the Greenbelt Rd. widening (to 6 lanes) and the two ends of Cherrywood Lane will remain unconnected until their respective bridges are also built. Here things get more complicated. The county will design the relocation of the exit ramps from the Parkway northbound on to Greenbelt Rd. but the Federal Highway Administration will design the bridge structure. Both designs are scheduled for completion in spring 1986. Construction can only occur, however, when federal funding is appropriated. Because this will take an act of Congress, no definite plans can be made at the present time.

The Cherrywood Lane bridge over the Beltway has been funded for design, according to Novak's letter, and a consultant engineer is being engaged. Acquisition of right-of-way for the bridge structure and its approaches, as well as the construction itself, will be funded by bonds supported by county TIF revenues (tax incremental financing). The bridge is expected to be completed by the fall of 1990.

ber of county, state and federal agencies that must approve the design. "The city has been putting the pressure on (for the road construction)," he said. "Now if you take it off, this will cause delay. It puts you back to the beginning."

Councilmember Tom White disagreed. "Our pressure has concerned the widening of Greenbelt Rd.," he said

But councilmember Ed Putens commented that this was the first time he had seen the road design. "We are deeply concerned about the residents in the area," he said.

Possible Routing

Using a ruler, city manager Jim Giese pointed out that moving the roadway was not such a simple matter. Since the section of roadway in question is a long curve, engineers would have to start at some distance north, where property on both sides is in private ownership, in order to bring the road boundary out 12 feet opposite the closest Hunting Ridge building. Renahan, using the same ruler, said that they never intended a change so drastic. In fact, by starting opposite the corner of the building in question, he said, the roadway would be straightened, making it much safer for travel. As for the question, raised by Giese, that the city's land had been given on the condition that it be used as greenspace, Renahan commented that the greenspace taken on the east by the roadway change would be replaced by other greenspace to the west.

"I'm interested in doing what the city and the citizens want," Novak said, but he wanted an official communication from the city requesting a right-of-way change. In the meantime he agreed to look over the possibilities and to alert the city if there should be any unforeseen problem resulting from such a change.

Renahan assured council that Hunting Ridge residents were not interested in using delaying actions to avoid construction of the road. "We are not trying to sabotage plans." He also felt uncomfortable, he said, that there should be any linkage between construction delay on Hanover Parkway and approval for construction of the Maryland Trade Center III building.

Speaking for council, Mayor Weidenfeld agreed that there was no such linkage—that access on Greenbelt Rd. was council's main concern in the other matter. Referring to the construction of Hanover Parkway, however, Weidenfeld summed up the views of the other three councilmembers present at the meeting (Pilski was absent)—"This is forever. While it's still on paper is the better time to address these concerns." The item will appear on the next city council a[illegible].

What is Nursing Bottle Syndrome?

This is an unfortunate condition found in children under 2 where rapid, extensive decay of the front teeth occurs. It is caused by allowing a child to fall asleep with a bottle in the mouth.

The contents of the bottle, be it milk, formula, juice, honey or sugar-water, all contain some form of sugar. When allowed to stay in the child's mouth all night, the sugar decays the newly erupted front teeth. The child is defenseless against this constant attack of sugar. If your child must have an evening or nap bottle, use only plain water to eliminate any chance of early decay.
